

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 10

The torturing and burning of a negro in Paris, Texas, has called forth a stormy protest from newspapers all over the country. In the horror of the punishment the man received, one forgets the awful crime for which he was punished. He outraged a three and a half year old child, and then tore her completely in two. Let every man put himself in the place of the father of the murdered child and then ask himself if it is possible to devise an adequate punishment for so fiendish a crime. If it requires such object lessons to protect children from outrage, the lessons must be forthcoming.

The conclusion reached by the Tribune that the Asphaltum Pipe company is started in the interests of the stock holders, is correct. Whenever the Tribune reaches a correct conclusion on anything the APPEAL feels bound to make the proper acknowledgment.

The estate which Florence Blythe Hinkley gained by her suit is estimated to be worth about $4,000,000. She will pay her attorneys $834,342-44, according to the terms of her agreement with them. She got out of it cheap and at the same time the seven lawyers who guarded her interests—and their own—are not left in a poverty-stricken condition.

The great silver gathering of the Congressional season should be on the occasion of the meeting of the National Bi-metallic league at Washington on February 22. Every silver State, mining and agricultural, should be represented by large and influential delegations.

A Reno landlord writes his own bill of fare, thereby saving the cost of printing. It announces coffee, soup, rose beef, ham boiled and baked potatoes, fried cold pudding, mince pies, nutting chops, velle culvert, hash and crucified chickens.—Silver State.

Senator Jones of Nevada is a great man in Europe as in Washington. It is said that he can talk down any of the European financiers.—S. F. Bulletin.

A Query From White Pine.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL:—What ever was the matter with the fool-killer when he visited Carson last, that he did not do his duty by laying out the Editor (I) of the Tribune? By thus neglecting his most obvious duty the f. k. has made it possible for this scribbler, who struts in the borrowed guise of a newspaper man, to insult decent citizens by mailing his alleged paper to them. Members have been good enough to countenance his worthless sheet, yet he thanks them with slurs and disgraceful innuendoes as to their disgraceful conduct and reminds them that the spotless angels who made up former Republican Legislatures were above and beyond conducting the disgraceful scenes of which the present Silver members are guilty. (Tribune Jan. 25.)

It is presumed that the brilliant jackass who manipulates the shears in the Tribune sanctum, would now be in the U. S. Senate, had he had the means with which to purchase Legislators, as he intimates that the purchase and sale of such honors is a fad with the great majority of the American people. Lacking, however the wherewithal with which to purchase Senatorial pickings, and having, by some unaccountable mischance escaped the aforementioned foolkiller, he was fast drifting down the stream, when members of the Silver Legislature, whom he derides, came to his rescue by donating a few dimes to the purchase of his utterly worthless sheet. He thus secures a little lease of time, in which to blur and blotch good, clean, white paper. The pertinent question, therefore, is where! oh where! is the present abiding place of the fool-killer!

QUERIST.

Cherry Creek, Feb. 4, 1893.

[We think our White Pine correspondent has allowed himself to become unduly excited over a trifle. The fool killer has been hard at work here for several years, but he can't do everything in a minute and he needs an occasional rest; just give the man time. The Tribune is not hurting the silver cause and before long the APPEAL will educate it up to the true silver standard and have it in line with the procession. Ed. APPEAL.]
